Info :

When you arrive on the site, you can browse it or log in directly. If you don't have an account, you can create one and choose a profile photo and background banner.

For buyers, you can enter your payment details in my account section.

After that you can choose items, add them to the basket within the limit available, a reminder on the stock will be made. If you log out of your session, the basket will be saved for the next time, but you can delete items directly from the basket.

The bidding section allows you to enter bids that are registered in the database, but unfortunately it doesn't work much more than that.

On product pages, you can use a filter to sort items in ascending or descending order.

Administrators have access to the list of articles and the list of users and can delete users.

Lastly, sellers can add items and provide information about them and after that he can see his item and keep it in his session.
